Buy Now Pay Later / Extended Payment Terms

Who we share your data with

If you use our buy now, pay later function or we otherwise provide extended payment terms to you (“BNPL Service”), the personal data you provide will be processed by our third party credit and payment service provider, MarketFinance Limited (the “BNPL Service Provider”) to assess your eligibility for the BNPL Service and for other purposes including fraud prevention and identity verification.

The BNPL Service Provider may share your personal data with credit reference agencies (“CRA”) they work with such as Experian, and may use data about you, and anyone with a financial association to you (a financial association is a link that’s created when you apply for a financial agreement with someone else); the BNPL Service Provider may also collect this information from other credit reference agencies in order to assist in assessing your eligibility for credit and payment services in connection with the BNPL Service. The data accessed contains publicly held data including the electoral roll, and shared credit performance data.

When a CRA receives a search from us or a BNPL Service Provider to assess your eligibility for the BNPL Service, the CRA will place a soft quotation search footprint on your credit report, regardless of whether you progress any application. This search will not affect your ability to gain credit.

If you choose to pursue an application for the BNPL Service, any data that you provide will be shared with our BNPL Service Provider. Upon you making a purchase for goods or services using the BNPL Service, the BNPL Service Provider may undertake a search with a CRA which will leave a hard search footprint on your credit report. The BNPL Service Provider may also continue to exchange information about your business with CRAs on an ongoing basis, including about your settled accounts and any debts not fully repaid on time. CRAs may share your information with other organisations.

Further information about each CRA and what it does with personal data is available at the following locations:

- Experian: www.experian.co.uk/legal/crain
- Equifax: www.equifax.co.uk/crain
- TransUnion: www.transunion.co.uk/crain

You can contact any of the CRAs if you wish to obtain a copy of your personal or business credit report.
